Environment Canada interested in Crystal Ball

I'm not sure how many read the last edition of WT, in it I made mention of my crystal ball, received as a Christmas gift in 1960. As mentioned, the crystal ball indicated that during this week, especially as we approach Christmas Day, the ski park was going to receive a dumping of snow. Our opening will be taking place, as scheduled on December 26th without any shortage of snow.

Over the weekend I receive a phone call from Head Office, Environment Canada wondering how I knew about snow arriving this week. They didn't! I politely told them about my reliable crystal ball...a great device to predict weather patterns. Well sir, I told them it wasn't for sale(which didn't sit well) but I directed them to the 1960 edition of Eatons Catalog from where it was obtained.

More on this in next edition...I have ski stuff to share...

Chalet Staffing - looking for volunteers

Again, I'm not sure how many of you are on top of the news regarding chalet operation this year but one topic that is back on the table is Chalet Volunteers. We are looking for volunteers to staff the chalet from 12:00-3:00 PM, Monday - Friday. There will be two, one and a half hour sessions each day...for a total of 10 sessions per week. Already, 3 members came forward so we are looking for 7 others.

Give it some thought and drop me a line if interested gnoonanguide@hotmail.com

No pressure...Covid 19 and its buddies are lurking in every corner.

New Webmaster for Whaleback Nordic Website

A BIG THANK YOU to Lisa Lucas who agreed to serve as our webmaster of the year. Presently, she is busy updating the site with 2022 material and I must say she is taking to it like a fish to water.

Really appreciated.

CCNL Tickets

How could I forget...they have arrived, I will be distributing them to members once activities get in full swing. Recently I sold one to a person who was going to give it as a stocking stuffer. What an idea?? Hint, Hint

More Covid restrictions

I read yesterday's announcements wondering if and how we were going to be impacted with the additional restrictions. We weren't here on the west coast. On the upside, the chalet will be open, we can ski and snowshoe... so all good...for the time being.

Till next time...wouldn't you know it, a knock at the front door...a member looking for their CCNL tickets
